Notes:

¹Standard modules are fielded at all participating institutions. The standard modules include a limited number of questions spanning the majority of the elective module topics, in addition to providing rich data on participants' demographics, mental health status, and help-seeking behaviors.

²Elective modules are chosen by participating institutions from the options listed above. To ensure that the overall survey (standard modules+elective modules) remains reasonable in length, participating institutions typically choose 1 elective module per survey (schools may have multiple surveys sent to different randomly or non-randomly chosen subsamples).

³Special modules are those given to schools that register for HMS through a special cohort. The United Negro College Fund (UNCF)/Steve Fund Module contains questions adapted/developed specifically for students at Historically Black Colleges and Universities (HBCUs) and Predominantly Black Institutions (PBIs), in partnership with the UNCF and Steve Fund. The questions are a combination of questions from HMS, questions adapted from the existing UNCF/Steve Fund questionnaire, created by the UNCF and Steve Fund team specifically for this module, and adapted from other sources. The MHICC module, developed with Mental Health Improvement through Community Colleges (MHICC; PI: Dr. Shawna Smith; HUM00193791) will be given to participants at schools that have enrolled with Healthy Minds as a part of the MHICC Cohort, and the questions were adapted/developed for students at Community Colleges.

ABOUT THIS DOCUMENT:Contents:

This document outlines all survey items included in the HMS Student Survey, the variable names in the clean datasets, the Qualtrics variable names in the raw dataset (provided to schools upon request), as well as the coding.

Each module is presented within a table. Above each table is the module name (in all capital letters, bolded and underlined). The columns are as follows:

1. Section: outlines organization within the module and is not visible to participants within the survey
2. Variable Name (Q#): the variable names in your clean dataset, as well as the Qualtrics variable names in parentheses (found in raw datasets)
3. Item: the question text that participants see
 - a. In cases of matrix table questions in which the variable names do not indicate what statement is being responded to, the corresponding number will appear ahead of the statement (For example: QPolicing_14_6, a matrix table statement where students are asked to rate to what degree they agree or disagree, the corresponding statement will read "6 Having armed police officers on campus is good for my mental health")
4. Response categories:
 - a. Response categories for single select multiple choice questions (and their corresponding codes)
 - b. Indication that a Qualtrics question is split into multiple columns of binary indicator variables (0 or 1) that indicate if a response among the multi-select responses was selected (1) or not (0)
 - i. In cases where the indicator variable name does not correspond to text of the selected choice, the corresponding number will appear ahead of the response choice (For example: Peer10 is split into 4 variables (Peer10_1 through Peer10_4), so the first choice in the "Item" column will read "1 One-to-one peer support for academic concerns (e.g. peer advising)")
5. Skip Logic/Notes: Additional information if a question utilizes skip logic (changing the standard denominator of "all survey respondents") or conditions under which a question appears (See Color Coding below). This column also includes citation information when applicable.

Color Coding:

As noted above, some items are based on embedded skip logic within the survey (i.e., some measures are assessed only for participants with certain responses to survey items). For example, only those who respond “No” to the question “Are you a United States citizen (or permanent resident)?” are asked the follow-up question “What is your country of citizenship (passport country)?”. This follow-up question is shown in gray, indicating that the item is based on embedded skip logic.

HMS is a web-based survey. As such, there are numerous coding and programming decisions (the vast majority of which are rather boring so we'll spare you). A few are important: for example, many items allow participants to “Select all that apply”. In some cases, one of the response options is ‘mutually exclusive’ meaning that a participant who selects that response option cannot select any of the other options (e.g., the response category “None” is mutually exclusive for the item “What activities do you currently participate in at your school?”). Programming notes are included in blue within the module tables.

Finally, certain items within the standard modules include a note in red (in the ‘Citation/Notes’ column) indicating that the item is included only if the elective module on that topic is not selected. In other words, a small number of items about important topics are included even if the elective module on that topic is not selected. This ensures that institutions have basic information about important topics that are not selected for in-depth assessment through elective modules. For example, if an institution does not select the ‘Eating and Body Image’ module, a small number of items about eating and body image are included in the ‘Mental Health Status’ module. If an institution does select the ‘Eating and Body Image’ module, the items about eating and body image are not included in the ‘Mental Health Status’ module (because eating and body image are being assessed separately in more detail through the ‘Eating and Body Image’ module).

When the “Response Categories” column contains this green note: “Binary Variables (1=selected, 0=unselected)” it is an indication that a multi-select question is split into multiple columns in the data (i.e. binary indicator variables for each response option). For more information, see “Contents” above (item 4b).

Non-Response Analysis & Weighting

A potential concern in any survey study is that those who respond to the survey will not be fully representative of the population from which they are drawn. In the HMS, we can be confident that those who are invited to fill out the survey are representative of the full student population because these students are randomly selected from the full list of currently enrolled students. However it is still possible that those who actually complete the survey are different in important ways from those who do not complete the survey. It is important to raise the question of whether the percentage of students who participated are different in important ways from those who did not participate. We address this issue by constructing non-response weights. The non-response weights adjust specifically for the fact that female students have consistently higher response rates than male students in our survey (and in most other survey studies). We construct the weights by comparing the female-male composition of our respondent sample to the reported female-male ratio for the full student population at each institution (which is typically available from basic enrollment statistics). If the respondent sample has a smaller percentage of males and larger percentage of females, as compared to the composition of the full student population, then male students in our sample are assigned a higher non-response weight value than female students. This means that weighted estimates are representative of the female-male distribution in the full student population. For students with nonbinary gender identities, we are not able to use this same process, however, because we are generally not able to obtain accurate statistics on the representation of these groups in the full student population. Therefore, rather than making assumptions, we assign a weight value to students with nonbinary identities that leaves their representation in the weighted sample the same as in the unweighted sample. In the future, if and when more reliable information becomes available at the full student population level, we will be able to incorporate that information into sample weights for groups other than female and male gender identities. Finally, note that these sample weights give equal aggregate weight to each school in the national estimates. An alternative would have been to assign weights in proportion to school size, but we decided that we did not want our overall national estimates to be dominated by schools in our sample with very large enrollments. The final variable incorporating these calculations is titled “nrweight.”
